

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A scraper comprises a main body and a blade. When a clasp on a locking cover locks with a clasp seat on the main body, the clasp of the locking cover can be completely received in the clasp seat of the main 5 body. Thus, a user can scrape smoothly. In addition, a recess is formed on a handle portion of the main body to receive the blade.